

Scott Haney
Final DVD Script
December 6, 2005

Upon Startup: A clip of one of the concert videos will start playing, featuring their guitar player soloing. The frame freezes but the audio keeps playing, and the background drops out to become the menu background. Then the options and titles enter into frame to the beat of the music.

Main Menu

This will be a basic motion menu with music playing in the background with the background possibly spinning (if I can get it to work right)

Main Menu choices:

- Play Videos – Links to Video Menu
- Special Features – Links to Special Features Menu

Special Features

A basic transition will occur between menus, fading to black and then back up again.

The Special Features menu will be a layer menu with the following choices:

- Black & Blue Video – Links to Black & Blue track
- Photo Gallery – Links to slideshow
- Audio Options – Links to Audio menu
- “Ultimate BNS Experience” – Links to alternate angle video track

A little transparent window will appear depending on which option you choose, and will describe the function of that particular option.

Video Menu

The videos are still being edited, so I'm not sure which ones I will ultimately choose to use, but there will be roughly three videos here that link to chapters of the video track, then will return to the special features menu. If the Play All option is chosen, then the video track with all of the videos on it will play through, then return back to the main menu.

Audio Options

Another basic layer menu with the two options of with or without crowd noise in the audio mix. You will also be able to switch back and forth using the audio button on the remote.

Audio Options

With Crowd Noise

Without Crowd Noise